RE: Buckfire & Buckfire, P.C. 2015 Law School Diversity Scholarship

Dear Financial Aid Office,

I am pleased to announce my law firm's Second Annual Law Student Diversity Scholarship. The $2,000.00 scholarship is awarded to a law school student currently attending an accredited law school and is either a member of an ethnic, racial, or other minority, or demonstrates the commitment to issues of diversity within their academic career. We received applications from law students from all over the United States last year.

Last year’s scholarship winner was Jeffery Garcia, a first generation Mexican-American. He is the first in his family to graduate from high school, as well as earn a degree from a four-year institution. Growing up, his parents only spoke Spanish. He learned English by watching television and attending school. His parents, being immigrants from Mexico, were unfamiliar with academia and unable to help him with his studies. This forced Jeffery to forge his own academic path, which eventually landed him in the top ten percent of his law school class. He attends the University of Southern California School of Law. We mailed his scholarship check in the amount of $2,000 directly to his law school’s Office of Registrar to be used toward his tuition.

The enclosed sheet of paper provides you with the application criteria and information to post on your website or otherwise publicize this scholarship to your students. If you have any questions, please e-mail us at marketing@buckfirelaw.com or by phone at 248.569.4646 with any questions.

Sincerely,

Lawrence J. Buckfire, Attorney
